

Clear Insight into Critical Supplier Data

We believe in the power of information to aid procurement decision making.

In such a fast-changing global economy, quick and easy access to relevant information is crucial to the success of procurement executives. Our mission is to provide supply managers with a 360° real-time view of supplier and stakeholder data.

Specifically, LUPR helps companies capture and consolidate critical data from different systems and teams to support more effective Strategic Supplier Management.

The problem we address is that when it comes to large purchases, often of strategic equipment, materials or services, there are a multitude of stakeholders involved operating in different teams, who may work in different countries or even continents. Each team has their own systems of record and tools to help them do their jobs, but have no easy way to review and share strategic supplier information and knowledge.

By effectively engaging with a wider part of the organization both geographical and functional, procurement executives get fuller insights into their strategic suppliers and make more strategic and fact-based decisions.

Why Do You Need LUPR?

Enterprise wide supplier insights

Improved supplier relationship management

Fact-based procurement decisionmaking

Ongoing supply risk mitigation

www.lupr.com

Improved resolution path for supply chain disruptions, safety and quality issues

LUPR provides the perfect tool for CPOs to drive cross-functional and geographical collaboration in their global enterprises.

LUPR enables analysis and insights into strategic supplier-related activities that support CPO objectives to reduce cost and improve value.

Find Strategic Supplier

LUPR provides the first and only platform to collect, consolidate, collaborate and present information critical to help supply managers make more effective strategic supplier decisions.

We have developed workflows for collecting the needed information, a platform to host it and interfaces for the different stakeholders to respond to or review important activity.

Sean Harley - LUPR CEO

To schedule a demo contact us at sales@lupr.com